Retailer Reminder

Have you ever seen the “Previous Paid” message come up when a player attempts to redeem their prize?

That usually means another retailer attempted to pay out the customer but did not have enough money in the register to do so, and the player kept the ticket to redeem elsewhere, or it means the player did already get paid out and accidentally kept the ticket instead of allowing the retailer to keep the winning ticket for their store records.

How to avoid this from happening:

Check the ticket first before attempting to cash out to ensure you have enough cash on hand for the payout - note - you will always be prompted if you attempt to cash out an amount over $25, but not prizes under $25.

Realizing you don’t have enough cash on hand after the fact causes several issues for the player, the Iowa Lottery and you as a retailer.

If this happens, the player must first contact the Lottery main office with details of what happened, which will delay payment by several days.

Then, the winnings will need to be paid by the Iowa Lottery and not a retailer. If the player has set-offs for debts owed to the State of Iowa, winnings will be withheld and the player may potentially not receive their payout for their winnings.

What Does “Previously Paid” Mean and How Can You as Retailer Prevent It?

Once Iowa Lottery staff have reviewed the details and paid the player, the retailer that incorrectly cashed out the ticket will then be charged to their Lottery account for the amount the player won if the winnings are under $600 - this varies by retailer.

Additionally, if you do pay out the customer, always ensure you’re keeping the winning ticket with the receipt for your records.

What to say to a player if you come across “Previous Paid” message to let them know they could still potentially receive their prize:

“The previously paid message sometimes appears when a ticket is not properly cleared on the lottery terminal after it is checked. Even though you won’t receive your prize here today, you can sign the back of the ticket and mail it in to the Iowa Lottery Main Office with a note saying the ticket rang up as previously paid. The Iowa Lottery validations team will review the details involved and attempt to process your claims.”
